THE publication of the Blue Book, says the London Daily News, of the 7th, containing the correspondence in the Sack-ville incident "considerably improves the position taken by President Cleveland and Secretary Bayard. Lord Salisbury's error lay in not perceiving that Lord Sackville's recalling involved no personal discredit."

THE London Standard considers that the publication of the Blue Book acquits the Foreign Office of an error in the Sackville incident, and shows that Lord Salisbury acted with dignity and discretion. "It removes," it says, "the only extenuation that it was possible to plead for Mr. Cleveland."

THE POLICE MYSTTETED .

London, Nov. 10.—The murder which took place in Spitalfields Whites district yesterday morning is undeniably a continuation of the series which was for a while interrupted for want of opporunity or inclination. In this case the urderer worked leisurely, as is made evident by the fact that the killing was done in a room fronting on the street, on the ground floor and within a few yards trict. Although the metropolitan police system is not yet discredited, the bloodsmith Maid, with 30,000 pounds of fresh the United States, Germany and the hound theory is entirely thrown out, smith Maid, with 33,000 pounds of Iresh the United States, Germany and the since the murder was not discovered unfish, was run into and sunk in Beston that Union to secure the restoration of til ten o'clock in the morning while the streets were teeming with people and General Bir Charles Warren was early On the 7th reports were received at St. the use of the Haytien insurgents was on the scene, and told a reporter that all the precaution in the world could on the scene, and told a reporter Petersburg of a terrible railway accident true, as an examination of her papers re- not prevent the work of such murderers. The sole chance remaining to the police, he said, was to catch them red-handed, and their change of tactics increased the difficulty. In the open air, where the killing has been done hitherto, the chance of their apprehension was slight, but in the case of an in-door murder, such as the last, the hope of arresting the perpetrator was almost barren of fruition. This latest murder will undoubted ly cause a large number of arrests on suspicion, but that the monster will be brought to bay is a matter of extreme doubt, since he has left no clues not worked over by the officers investigating the previous cases. The most annoying feature of the case is that the arrest of a number of innocent persons on suspicion will have to be repeated. The opinion of Archibald Forbes and Mr. Winslow that the assassin is a hamieidal maniae is confirmed by the latest murder, and the prediction has become general that another murder will soon follow. Look at it-the sacred chest of the an- the United States a man can not vote as in the back part of a groggery. When cients. It was about five feet long, three feet wide and three feet high. It was within and out of pure gold. On the top of it stood two angels facing each other with outspread wings. In that sacred box was the law, and there were in it a great many precious stones. With that box went the fate of the nation. Carried in front of the host, the waters of the Jordan parted. Divinely charged, costly precious, momentous box. No unholy hands might lay hold of it. It was called the ark of the covenant. But you will understand it was a box, the most precous box of the ages. Where is it now? Gone forever. Not a crypt of church or museum of the world has a fragment

But is not this Nation God's chosen people? Have we not passed through the Red Sea? Have we not been led by a pillar of fire by night? Has this Nation no ark of the covenant? Yes, the ballotbox, the sacred chest of the Nation, the ark of the American covenant. In it is the law, in it is the Divine and the human law, in it is the fate of the Nation. Carried in front of our host again and again. Mighty ark of the covenant, the American ballot-box! It is a very old box. In Athens, long before the art of printing, the people dropped pebbles into it to
